Duffy's Double in Ninth Scores Two Runs and St. Louis. 5 & Settles Issue—McBride's Men Come From Behind Again.

NEW YORK, April 7 .- Duffy Lewis, who once wore the livery of the Yankees, took a fitting revenge today for the deal that sent him down along the Potomac River to George McBride. Duffy waited until the historic ninth for his revenge and when the harvest of his bitterness had been reaped it was found that the Griffmen had defeated the Hugmen for the third time in succession here, the score in the latest upset for the Yanks being 5 to 3 in the other fellows' favor.

All Duffy Lewis did was to produce a two-bagger, the ball sailing beyond the clutch of Babe Ruth in left, while two Washingtonians who were on the bags romped most merrily across the plate. And just to rub in the defeat the more George Mogridge, also a former Yank, called into action in the seventh after Burly Shaw had been found wanting, proceeded with his left-handed wares to quell any disturbance the loudly keralded home-runners of our town might arouse.

Yanka Failed Again.

The same story holds true, the Yankees failed to hold the pace when the big crisis came. For three games in a row, amid the encouraging cheers of thousands of fans, these alleged slugging Yanks have sped away to what seemed a lewis,!f.... safe lead, only to see their rivals battle through to victory, Something is wrong with the Yankees, and the lowliest fan in the extreme corner of the sunlit bleachers

The game today prodded along dully and monotonously after the first inning, when the Yanks came through with two runs and the Griffs with one. The Yankee tallies were the outcome of a single by Peckinpaugh, two passes and a sacrifice fly clouted by the dangerous Meusel. The Griffs' run was evolved from a single by Judge, a base on balls to Milan and infield outs on the part of Rice and Lewis.

In the third spasm the Huggers In the third spasm the Huggers added one more to their tally, and Bob Shawkey, who was pitching his first game of the season, despite a sore arm, was mightly encouraged and things continued to go on swimmingly for Bob until the eighth when the tide changed.

Samuel Rice, hero of the day preceding, oblingingly grounded out to Pipp, and then came Duffy Lewis with his crash that turned all things topsy turvy, including Nick Altrock on the coaching line.

Yankees Lose Their Pep.

With the ball game gone, the ankees approached the barier in most continually throughout the their half of the ninth as though they conceded it was gone. Miller Huggins assumed his customary est. grouch on the coaching line but Southpaw Jermane began the proved no inspiration to the batters mound work for the Blue and White who faced George Mogridge in his mound work for the Blue and White new garb. ### Griffs Game Finishers.

The season is only two weeks gone and there's a long road to travel, but sufficient unto the day travel, but sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof. Only the pessimist says "They can't keep it up."

When the Fighting Griffmen, the gamest finishers in the circuit, came from behind again yesterday and trimmed the proud and haughty New Yorkers for the fourth consecutive time, they were enabled to breathe the rarified atmosphere of the heights by reason of Detroit's victory in the tenth inning over Cleveland. With six straight wins under their belts, it was beginning to look as if Speaker's men were never going to lose another game. The Fort Myer third team was polo series at Potomac Park yester day. The two teams were deadlocked at the end of the regulation periods, and the struggle was carried through two additional stanzas before Fort Myer gained the decision.

The work of Mai. Bull. playing

No. 2 for the Yellows, stood out all through the game, but it was an unfortunate foul committed by him late in the eighth period which paved the way for the deciding goal. There was no scoring in the initial period. In the second frame, Maj. Bull counted for the War De partment and Capt. Sharp for Fort Myer. The score remained a tie until the fourth period, when Fort Myer took the lead on a pretty shot by Capt, Davis, which barely rolled over the goal line. Fort Myer looked like sure winners until the closing minutes of play in the sixth period, when the Yellws spurted, and with a display of excellent teamwork and superb horsemanship knotted the count o Maj. Bull's second goal of the day.

Play speeded up in the extra periods, with both teams having easy riods, with both teams and the deciding goal, but falling down when a scoring shot was needed. After the Yellows had missed two chances to score, the tide turned and the ball was quickly carried into War Deward Quickly car of the floater ball, but we understand that the Caddies' Union is strictly against it. If the ball sinks out of sight in some pond there is very little to be done about it. But if it floats it is always the luckess caddie who is sent to the rese. Early in the spring watertain party make a caddie out into ice water to retrieve a battered old floater that wasn't worth a cigarette. The caddies' vote against the floater will be 162 per cent in the negative.
